

WORKSHOP: STUDYING HOUSING IN INTERDISCIPLINARY PERSPECTIVE

Research Project: Employment-tied Housing in (Post)-Colonial Africa

Department of African Studies, University of Vienna, Seminar Room 1&3

Thursday-Saturday, 9-11 November 2017

- Donatien Dibwe Dia MWEMBU
10 November
10:00-11:00
La problématique de l'habitat dans les villes minières de la province du Katanga, 1910-1960
 - University of Lubumbashi, Department of History
- Johan LAGAE
10 November
11:30-12:30
Ruashi, a Pessac in Congo? On the design, inhabitation and transformation of a 1950s neighborhood in Lubumbashi, DRC
 - University of Ghent, Department of Architecture and Urban Planning
- Martina KOPF
10 November
14:30-15:30
Tracing social and economic change through urban novels
 - University of Vienna, Department of African Studies
- Carole RAKODI
10 November
15:30-16:30
Addressing gendered inequalities in access to land and housing
 - University of Birmingham, International Development Department
- Rose Marie BECK
10 November
17:00-18:00
What kind of artefact is a landmark?
 - University of Leipzig, Department of African Studies
- Nicholas SUNGURA
11 November
9:00-10:00
Interplay of themes in shelter for native workers in (post-)colonial Kenya
 - Leibniz University of Hannover
- Ambe NJOH
11 November
10:00-11:00
Company towns as a tool of power and social control in Africa: The case of CDC workers' camps in Cameroon
 - University of South Florida, School of Geosciences
- Patience MUSUSA
11 November
11:30-12:30
On the fringe of the mine town: new mining rurbanisms in Zambia's Copperbelt
 - The Nordic Africa Institute, Uppsala

Convenors: Kirsten Rüther, Martina Barker-Ciganikova, Carl Bodenstein, Daniela Waldburger